

Washington Will Have Dog Show in March—Three Days Will See Animals

A NEW STAR APPEARS AT HILLTOP, REPLACING TWO OTHERS

DOG SHOW TO BE HELD HERE THREE DAYS NEXT MONTH

One Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes To Be Awarded Winners in Washington Kennel Club Event.

Monthly Exhibitions Will Be Held in Future, and Bureau Is Established to Recover Lost Dogs.

Washington will have a three-day dog show this season. It will be held on March 14, 15, and 16.

The Washington Kennel Club held an important meeting last night and the dates of the coming show were announced as authorized by the American Kennel Club. One thousand dollars will be given in cash prizes and there will be in addition handsome cups and ribbons for winners in the amateur classes.

Monthly exhibitions will be held by the club from now on, and a committee has been named to take charge of these exhibitions, consisting of R. H. Atkinson, E. Roy Rott, George Goodacre, Capt. Grove A. Porter, and Dr. George N. Payette.

A bureau for the recovery of lost dogs will be established by the Kennel Club, in charge of Edward S. Smith, 712 Twelfth street northwest. Many complaints have been made to members of the club that their dogs have either been stolen or have strayed, and every means will be taken to recover them.

The Washington exhibitors will attend the Westminster Kennel Club's show in a body, having a special car for themselves and a baggage car to carry for the high-class dogs to represent the Capital in the metropolis. The Westminster show is America's biggest and Washington will have many entries.

Dr. E. E. Buckingham has made arrangements to address the Washington Kennel Club monthly on matters pertaining to the care and welfare of dogs.

Many new members have added their names to the lists of the club and the organization was never in a more flourishing condition.

NAVAL ACADEMY TO PLAY DOZEN GAMES

Basketball Team Opens Campaign With Loyola Quint on December 18.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 7.—The complete schedule of basketball games for the midshipmen's five was announced yesterday by athletic authorities of the Naval Academy, and although a dozen dates are listed, the schedule is perhaps not as strong as marked the past two or three seasons. Only one big team of the Intercollegiate Association is included in the list. This is the University of Pennsylvania.

The season will not start until December 18, when the Midshipmen meet Loyola College of Baltimore. The annual game with Georgetown is booked for January 22, and as these dates have been considerably delayed by the postponement of the indoor season, the contest is expected to be interesting.

December 18—Loyola College.
December 22—Georgetown University.
December 26—University of Pennsylvania.
January 5—New York University.
January 12—Catholic University.
January 19—St. John's College of Annapolis.
January 26—Georgetown.
February 2—Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.
February 9—St. John's College of Brooklyn, N. Y.
February 16—Lehigh.
February 23—Washington and Lee.
February 28—University of Virginia.

Syracuse Wins 35 to 0 From Occidental Team

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 7.—The powerful Syracuse University football team had an easy time winning from Occidental College here yesterday, 35 to 0. The Easterners outwitted the Occidentals by many points, especially in the line and had no difficulty in playing the ball. Captain McHugh, of the Occidentals, suffered a fractured leg in the third quarter when thrown heavily by Slater, who was the star of the Syracuse eleven.

Only once was Syracuse in any danger, just before the whistle in the first period Occidental carried the ball to the New Yorkers' twenty-line. The necessary touch was missing, however, and Syracuse held for downs and punted beyond midfield. Slater's ninety-yard run through both teams was the best piece of individual play during the game.

Ertle Uses Kayo.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—Quaker fans will have to get another peek at Johnny Ertle before learning much about him, for he disposed of Young Blasing last night in forty-five seconds. In that brief period Ertle sent his opponent down three times, the last one ending the bout.

TRAINING WILL BE BRIEF FOR GRIFFS

Old Fox Plans to Have Bulk of Squad in Camp For Only Two Weeks.

The Griffins will spend only about fifteen days at their training camp in 1916. Manager Griffith announced today that while he would have his pitchers along through their stunts for ten days before the bulk of the squad arrived, he would not have the others show up for more than two weeks of work.

Walter Johnson and Zeb Milan have asked permission to start training at Hot Springs, Ark., and it is expected that Dan Moeller, George McBride, and Rippy Williams will also make such an application before the winter is out. They will not be with the team in training more than a few days.

The Griffins will not occupy their old training quarters in Charlottesville, Va., next spring. If they go to the Virginia University town for their practice stunts, Manager Griffith today learned that the fraternity owning the big house, headquarters for four years, has declined to lease it to the athletes. However, the Old Fox was given a chance to obtain the big house next to the fraternity house, and he will send Mike Martin, the team's trainer, down to look over.

Manager Griffith and President Minor plan to go to Chicago Sunday or Monday for the annual meeting of the American League. The Old Fox today refused to mention any players he would seek to trade or sell, though it is known that he will part with Gandil, Boehling, Ainsmith, and Morgan, if he can receive proper return for them.

BOB FOLWELL STILL IN FIELD FOR JOB

W. and J. Coach and Bill Hollenback May Be Associates At Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—Far from removing from the race to become coach of the 1916 Pennsylvania football eleven, Bob Folwell today insisted that he is still a candidate. While talking with some of the men about college today he declared that his statement before the Sphinx Senior Society on Saturday night had been misconstrued in regard to his withdrawing his candidacy for head coach.

"I told the Sphinx members," he said, "that I feared I would not get the right support from the football committee if I was appointed head coach, but I certainly did not intend to give the impression that I had withdrawn from the field. However, I am not chasing the job. I do not care who gets the job, but so long as it is a good man of the new school, and they do away with the antiquated system, now in vogue here."

The talk of Bill Hollenback and J. being rivals for the position is all bosh. In fact, Bill and I have agreed that if either of us gets the appointment, the other will act as his assistant, if necessary even without pay," Hollenback, when seen later, declared on Folwell in regard to the teaming up scheme in case of the appointment of one of them.

The combination of these two noted coaches is bound to have an effect on the new football committee when it considers the question, for they are admittedly among the best in the country.

Cross and Ad Woigast Post Forfeits For Bout

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Sam Wallach, representing Leach Cross, and Larney Liechtenstein, manager of Ad Woigast, posted $250 each for their respective charges, as a guarantee for their appearance at the Harlem Sporting Club on December 12. Cross starts training for the bout today.

"EXIE"

The football season has gone and with it go Albert A. Exendine and Charles R. Cox. For three months they have been monopolizing the center of the stage at Georgetown. But their day has gone for another year. Into the limelight comes John D. O'Reilly. John was active on the gridiron, too, but had to keep close to the wings to let "Exie" and Cox do their stunts. But now John comes to the front, offering his track athletes and his basketball players as substitutes for the gridiron heroes. Later on O'Reilly will have his baseball players in action, because he is going to remain in the limelight right up to the close of the college year.

American Federation Exceeding Authority

Boxing Body's Award of the World's Light Heavyweight Title to Dillon Unwarranted by Facts. Board Making Many Blunders.

Previous to the breaking out of the war and when boxing was flourishing in France, the Federation of Boxing of that country did not consider it had done its duty if a day elapsed and no boxer had received from that organization a diamond studded belt, emblematic of the championship of the world. It did not make any difference if the recipient of the belt had no just claim to the title in question. That was a minor consideration. The major question was that somebody absolutely required a championship belt, and the first boxer to show his head to the federation received the trophy.

Elly Papke, after a decision over Carpenter, received one of the championship belts, although Papke had no right to the title of world's middleweight champion. Frank Klaus, the American title holder, tucked away in his valise when he started for Europe, and when the Pittsburgher defeated Papke and Carpenter one after the other he was himself the middleweight champion of the world. Strangely enough, the federation did not make any mention of this fact, although he was entirely worthy of the honor.

Later on, when Jeff Smith had beaten a few middleweight champions, the federation produced another championship belt, and handed the blushing Hyonno boxer. The federation was preparing to order a ton of belts when the war put an end to the enterprise.

Of course, none of the belts had any significance whatever, and were merely souvenirs of the occasions. The French Federation has no authority to name world's champions, nor to issue certificates of championship qualities. The French Federation had a perfect right to issue belts to French champions, because the championship—even in France—is under the jurisdiction of the federation, the same as the championship of boxing in England is under the jurisdiction of the National Sporting Club of London. Therefore, when the body in control of boxing in any country assumes to name a world's champion and confer a belt emblematic of the title, it exceeds its authority to a painful degree.

So far as the French federation is concerned, its action in the premises is entirely to be ignored, and the proper and just procedure.

But what shall be said of the American Boxing Association, recently organized in this country, composed of men supposedly wise in the matters of the roped square, who fall into the same silly error as the French Federation?

One of the first acts of the American Boxing Association was to solemnly declare that Jack Dillon is the light-heavyweight champion of the world.

In view of the fact that Dillon never boxed on foreign soil, and never in the class of light-heavyweight, he is not the champion of the world. It is not unlikely that Dillon might beat the light-heavyweight champions of England and Australia, but how about Carpenter, who holds the French title in that class? Dillon might have some trouble with the Frenchman.

probably the best in his class in the world, but he will not be world's champion until he beats the foreign boxers who hold titles in the same classes.

There is no doubt Dillon will be more than willing to meet the foreigners as soon as the present state of affairs in Europe comes to an end and the rational and humane system of glove bouts is resumed. Meantime, Dillon will not make any unwarranted claims, even though voiced by the A. B. A.

Another serious blunder made by the A. B. A. is the arbitrary selection of boxers who are declared to be qualified to compete in tournaments, the winner of which is to be the champion of the class. It is not for the A. B. A. to decide on the eligible boxers for a championship tournament.

The A. B. A. under its rules can set the date for such tournament, and invite the entry of all boxers eligible to the class. This would give all the men in the division a chance to compete, and those who did not care to enter would thereby lose their chance.

The A. B. A. has mentioned the names of a few flyweights who are eligible to compete in a tournament, and also has named the winners who can participate in a competition for the title. This is extrajudicial. Every man in the flyweight and welterweight classes must have a fair chance to enter, and the winners could not be regarded as the legitimate champions of the classes.

The A. B. A. made a number of surprising blunders in technical matters pertaining to boxing, and unless it to its immediate improvement it will lose the confidence of the public and will not be able to control any part of the game.

Jesse Harper Denies He Will Quit Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 7.—Jesse H. Harper today denied that he would give up his position as director of athletics at Notre Dame to accept a similar position at the Michigan Agricultural College. Harper will continue to coach Notre Dame's teams in all branches of athletics, assisted by graduate coaches in each department. It is known here that several Eastern colleges would also like to have Harper as coach.

Prospects for a winning football team at Notre Dame next year are encouraging. The team will lose only three regulars this fall. The men to be lost, however, are all stars of the first magnitude and lineups, so the team's defense will be severely crippled. Captain Fitzgerald, left guard; Keefe, right guard; and Edward, left end, end their career this season. The freshmen, who won every game this year, have some unusually good material.

Men Cannot Watch Girls At Football

BRYN MAWR, Pa., Dec. 7.—Bryn Mawr College girls have taken up association football as one of their winter sports. A league has been formed with teams entered from all the dormitories and a regular schedule made out. So far three games have been played. The Denbigh Hall girls have downed Pembroke West; the Pembroke East girls have defeated Merion, and the Rainor Hall girls have beaten Rockefeller.

Spectators of the masculine persuasion are not welcome. In fact, guards are placed to head off all more men from the campus, but many of the girls from the various boarding schools in Bryn Mawr help to swell the "crowd" at the games.

SERIES WILL BEGIN AT CARDINALS' PARK

Magnates Hedges and Britton Decide to Stage Games on Saturdays and Sundays.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—At a conference yesterday before President Schuyler P. Britton of the Cardinals and Col. Robert Lee Hedges, president of the Browns, it was decided to start the 1916 spring series between the Browns and the Cardinals on Saturday, March 25. The series will open at Robinson Field.

The next game will be played at Sportsman's Park the following day. The teams will then have an opportunity to continue their spring training practice on their respective diamonds until the following Saturday and Sunday, when they play the third and fourth games of the series. The final games will be staged on April 8 and 9.

The players will have an opportunity to rest up for two days between the conclusion of the series and the start of the championship season, which is scheduled to open on Wednesday, April 12.

The selection of a spring training camp for the Browns will probably be made within the next few days. Colonel Hedges is said to favor a return to Houston, Tex., while Manager Riskey seems inclined to train at either Corpus Christi or Temple.

The Cardinals, according to President Britton, will do their training at Hot Wells, Tex. Britton said he has been assured by the owners of the Hot Wells Hotel that the hotel will reopen in time to accommodate the Cardinals when they report at San Antonio on or about March 2.

Welsh Finds Some More Easy Money Coming In

PEACE TERMS MAY COME FROM MOGULS

Federal Leaguers Will Hold Session, and Tip Says Harmony May Result.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Federal League owners will hold a meeting in this city on Friday, and gossip had it that some sort of an agreement would be reached with the National League owners, who will convene at the Waldorf-Astoria on December 14. The story that the Federal League men would be permitted to purchase the franchises of several National League clubs was revived, but this was denied on all sides.

The Feds said today they didn't want to buy any franchises; the National League people said that no franchises were for sale. That seems to make it unanimous, but the rumor spread despite all disavowals.

It is probable that when the outlaw magnates go into session the fate of the Newark club will be decided. It is almost certain that Harry Sinclair, who now controls the Jersey club, will purchase a big interest in the New York team, and will therefore have to dispose of his holdings in Newark. Pat Powers is named as a possible successor to Sinclair, but nothing definite could be learned on the matter at the office of the league yesterday afternoon.

There is a feeling among the organized baseball men that the Feds will never build in this city. One man declared his willingness to wager $1,000 that the park would never be built, and offered his bet contingent upon the outcome being successful in having the streets closed. If the Feds do not allow the thoroughfares to be closed the wager is to be lost.

This man, a keen, successful business man, said that it would take a great sum of money to reimburse the city for closing its main streets, even in consideration of the fact that the Federal League would offer as partial compensation an exterior street along the Harlem river front, and a new thoroughfare 200 feet east of Lenox avenue, running from 145th street to 144th street, and from 142d street to 161st street.

VANDERBILT LOSES ONE FOOTBALL MAN

Captain Cohen Will Return, and Cody May Be Declared Eligible Next Year.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., December 7.—The Vanderbilt Commodores, claimants of the Southern championship, will lose but one man from this year's eleven, if present plans do not miscarry.

Capt. Russell Cohen has announced definitely that he will return to school next season and come out again for the Commodore eleven.

Then comes the announcement that Tackle Cody may be back. His case will be decided by the S. I. A. A. for a claim. He played two years at Bethel and two at Vanderbilt, but it is Vanderbilt's contention that he took preparatory work the first year at Bethel and college work the second, thus having played but three years' college ball, entitling him to another year at Vanderbilt.

If Cody's case is acted on favorably, Reyer is the only man that the Commodores will lose from the 1916 machine.

Another Record Breaks As Bikers Keep On Job

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Thirteen teams, struggling for the slightest advantage, swung into the second day's grind of the six-day bike race today, bunched at 706 miles, slightly more than a mile behind the record. Sullivan and Anderson, the Irish-Danish team, were trailing the pack at 704 miles nine laps, at 5 a. m., and the Swiss-Italians, Suter and Madonna, were a lap behind them. Kopsky and Wohlrab, the Metropolitan team, were tied with Rudi-Russ and Kopsky and Rudi-Russ and Lon-Vanderstuyft, the war team, at 704 miles, six laps behind.

MINCE PIE "LITTLE OF EVERYTHING" BY "BUGS" BAER.

During the excitement, Walt Camp might sneak in and pick the Yale waterboy for the All-American team.

Boxing Notes. Georgetown will again meet the Navy on the gridiron next fall.

That poor fish who was elected captain of Pennsylvania's football team must have been indicted on a true count.

There is a price of $400,000 on Gabriele d'Annunzio's head, and contrary to the opinion of baseball scout Bob Doyle, it was not placed there by the Brunswick, Balke, Collender Co.

"A woodpecker makes a living by knocking, but he has a lot of amateur competition."

What the Nationals need more than anything else will be hitting strength scattered in other directions besides umpires and telegraph poles.

A Real Oddity.

The Siamese twins were very odd indeed, but they would look exceedingly natural compared to the sporting editor who never picked an All-American team.
